1. The first part of the paper discusses the importance of the study of the history of the United States. It is argued that a knowledge of the past is essential for a full understanding of the present and for the development of a sound policy for the future.

2. The second part of the paper discusses the role of the government in the development of the United States. It is argued that the government has played a crucial role in the development of the country, and that its actions have been guided by a set of principles that have been passed down from generation to generation.

3. The third part of the paper discusses the role of the individual in the development of the United States. It is argued that the individual has played a crucial role in the development of the country, and that his actions have been guided by a set of principles that have been passed down from generation to generation.

4. The fourth part of the paper discusses the role of the future in the development of the United States. It is argued that the future is a time of great opportunity, and that it is up to us to make the most of it. We must strive to create a better world for ourselves and for our children, and we must do so in a way that is consistent with the principles that have guided us in the past.

5. The fifth part of the paper discusses the role of the present in the development of the United States. It is argued that the present is a time of great challenge, and that it is up to us to meet the challenge. We must strive to create a better world for ourselves and for our children, and we must do so in a way that is consistent with the principles that have guided us in the past.
